

Jorge Jaime Sena

jorgejs1911@gmail.com +34 744 45 13 77 Bormujos, Sevilla

22 de August de 2026

SponicHR

Web Developer

Building functional, user-centric web applications is what drives me, and I have followed SponicHR's growth with great interest. My technical foundation in JavaScript, HTML, and CSS has allowed me to deploy real-world projects, such as a fully functional e-commerce platform with integrated AI features and automated email notifications. I thrive on turning complex requirements into clean, efficient code that solves actual business problems.

Beyond front-end development, I am comfortable managing data structures using SQL and integrating backend logic to ensure a seamless user experience. My approach is rooted in constant learning and autonomy; whether I am optimizing a web interface or architecting a new feature, I focus on scalability and performance. I am particularly drawn to SponicHR because of your commitment to innovative HR solutions, and I am eager to contribute my technical skills to your development team.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my hands-on experience with web technologies and my proactive problem-solving mindset can add value to your current projects. Are you available for a brief conversation next week to explore how I can support your team?

Atentamente,

Jorge Jaime Sena